

Sailor's Valentine

(Words & Music by Ruth Dunfield)

My love I'm going away
To the call of the restless sea ya know it owns my soul
I was born to be free - I was meant to roam

But you have given to me
A freedom that only love could still my heart and I know - I'll wish I were here the moment we part

With this I hope you'll remember me
With this I wish to remind you of our love
With this my sailor's Valentine

This voyage will carry me far
But I'll always feel the touch of your quivering hand
And know these feelings are real - I see it in your face - again

But when I return will I find You waiting for me and know that we've made it through the long years that sometimes can turn the strongest love cool

With this I hope you'll remember me
With this I wish to remind you of our love
With this my sailor's Valentine

With this I hope you'll remember me
With this I wish to remind you of our love
With this my sailor's Valentine
With this my sailor's Valentine

© 2002 Ruth Dunfield (SOCAN)

